(9) Rationale Social media is a platform where thoughts, opinions, and views of individuals across the globe are posted and read by a wider audience. The phenomena posted on social media may include the trends, events, or behavior that gain widespread attention, engagement, and influence in the realm of social media platforms. These come in various forms, such as videos, memes, hashtags, challenges, and movements. They often spread rapidly across social media, capturing the interests and participation of every kind of audience and user. In the first quarter of 2024, the Philippine social media has been flooded by phenomena catering to the issues in Philippine Lottery results or winners, occurrence of electrical shortage, and even politics. These issues that spread in the social media had gathered reactions among the people, thereby had solicited the issues on trust and confidence on the Philippine government in the implementation of its programs and projects. This news in the social media and some misinformation heightened anxiety and confusion among people (Gilbas, 2023).

The most common forms of social media that publish these phenomena are the Facebook, Instagram, youtube, tiktok and among others. According to Kale (2020), these social media became a user- generated content that enables boredom, fatigue and fear as expressed through a 15-second to a one- minute video chunk, one to two sentences post on thoughts and views, and others are pictures or illustrations (memes) that draw out criticisms on the issues on time. Apparently, these materials became part of the social industry. They are regarded as parodies which main intention is to translate the people’s feelings into humor. The study of Tervo & Ridanpää (2016) identified humor as a socio-cultural construct that deals with pre-conceived factors concerning situational understanding. They further mentioned that a parody “pokes fun at a certain style of a particular work “(p.4). Similarly, the article of Canlas (2020) discussed the nostalgic tropes of Filipinoness in YouTube videos, which contents are considered funny and humorous when one knows the Filipino culture.

Although there could be a lot of news reports and literature that may speak about the mentioned social media phenomena, the intention of using these phenomena as instructional materials in teaching literature has been left out.

Thus, the researcher intends to present the parodies not just as a form of entertainment and creative expression but as instrumental in helping the global and local communities deal with issues or phenomena published in social media. More so, this paper construed that parodies could also be literary materials as sources of contextual history. This study also considered the idea that the creativity used in the vernacular is a way to understand the productive work that social media are doing when they react to a phenomenon illustrated in social media (Stratton, 2021).

(9-A) Project Description (Discuss the project strategy and plan of action of the project. It should also describe the technical procedures and other work needed to accomplish the project objectives. The relationship of the project inputs and activities should be explained clearly in this section. Projects similar/related to the proposed project should be mentioned.)

Social(10) Objectives/Statement of the Problem

Generally, this paper aims to present the parodies in social media phenomenon as aesthetic expressions and as literary materials in teaching literature.

Specifically, this study will seek answers to the following questions:

1. What are the parodies present in the social media pertaining to the phenomena on Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Organization (PCSO), Electrical Shortage in Region VI, and the reactions of the political leaders?
2. What are the literary aesthetic elements such as themes, mood, tone, and voice displayed in these parodies?
3. How the literary aesthetic elements unveil the socio-cultural message of the identified parodies?
4. What instructional material can be proposed using the results of the study?

(11) Review of Literature/Prior Art Search (Related researchers/activities that have been conducted. State-of –the-art of current technology / information from which the project proposal will take-off).

Gilbas (2023) in her study concluded that the pandemic parodies are not just as a form of aesthetic expression but more so as literary materials for post-pandemic literary history. Some of the identified common terms used in the pandemic parodies are infected, stay home, corona, lockdown, quarantine, quaranqueen, and sound of sirens, among others. The deciphered themes of the parodies made during pandemic are the ideas of paranoia, obliviousness, boredom, thoughtfulness, and noncompliance to the law. It can also be concluded that the parody songs' main purpose and messages are, to stay at home to avoid/prevent the spread of virus, change of routine and no routine at all, limited mobility to contain the virus, family quality time, and obedience to the law. Those common terms related to CoViD-19 may eventually uncover the effects of pandemic to society. They included effects on field of economy and business, education, entertainment, transportation, human behavior, and religion. Finally, song parodies from the pandemic could be used as a post-pandemic source for historical and literary context.

(12) Scientific Basis/Theoretical Framework (Include concepts. theories and variables that indicate relevant relationships to be tested.

This paper is anchored on the theory of participatory culture introduced by Jenkins (2009). He discussed the role of the concept that designates the involvement of the users (or creators and uploaders) and the audience (or viewers and fans) in the creation of culture and content. Accordingly, “a participatory culture is a culture with relatively low barriers to artistic expression and civic engagement, strong support for creating and sharing one’s creations, and some type of informal mentorship whereby what is known by the most experienced is passed along to novices. A participatory culture is also one in which members believe their contributions matter and feel some degree of social connection with one another (Jenkins & Ito, 2015). In addition, Schneider (2016) utilized the same concept of participatory culture when he applied thematic understanding based on nostalgia from the analysis of user-generated comments from selected music videos.

(13) Methodology (Details such as; a) variables to be measured and evaluated; b) treatments to be used and their layout; c) experimental procedures and design; d) statistical analysis; e) evaluation method and observations to be made, strategies for implementation.)

Research Design

Anchored on the theory of participatory culture, this paper will employ a descriptive-qualitative research method. The gathered parodies, considerably from Facebook and Instagram are to be used as the subjects of analysis. They will be chosen based on popularity using the hashtags related to the topics (examples are #pcsomemes, #lottowinners, #lottomemes, #blackoutpanay, #ncgp, and others). Thematic analysis by Braun and Clarke (2006) will be used in sorting and sifting the related data from the social media. Moreover, hermeneutic approach will be considered in the discussion where the fusion of horizons between the texts and the baggage carried by the researcher are to be used in making interpretation, thus, creating another meaning.
