SUMMARY

This proposed study entitled Project PUKAW-DUNGAN (Promoting Unity, Knowledge, and Awareness: Developing Understanding, Nurturing Growth and Advocacy in Networking) aims to uplift the cultural awareness and literacy of the local folks and indigenous people in the barangays of Tapaz, Capiz, Philippines by promoting understanding, knowledge and advocacy about livelihood programs through the "PANUBOK: A LIVELIHOOD PROGRAM OF PANAY BUKIDNON EMBROIDERY TRADITION" and "GASTRONOMIC INNOVATION ENTERPRISE", about sports program through the "HAMPURO: PRESERVING LOCAL HERITAGE THROUGH TRADITIONAL GAMES FOR SUSTAINABLE REVITALIZATION PROGRAM", about literacy program through the "EDUCATION UNDER THE TREE", and about values formation program through the "TAYTAY SA KAUSWAGAN: A VALUES FORMATION PROGRAM".

Following implementation, a series of seminars will instruct and support the respondents in doing the different programs. Additionally, the proposed study will cover market access techniques that would enable the respondents to profit from the livelihood programs. Also, encouraging writing and embracing diversity will help unite the community while nurturing personal growth and appreciation for different cultures. Lastly, networking will enable collaboration and the exchange of ideas to further enhance literacy and cultural awareness.

The tools and materials to be used will be provided to the respondents as funds will be given to the proponent by the Local Government Unit of the Tapaz Municipality. There will be 10 participants selected by the Punong Barangay of San Julian, Daan Banwa, Tabon, and Minan and key officials of the said barangay will help supervise the conduct of this said activity.

RATIONALE/BACKGROUND OF THE PROJECT

The Philippines, a country rich in cultural diversity, is home to numerous indigenous communities, each with distinct traditions and ways of life. However, these communities often face challenges in preserving their cultural heritage and improving their socio-economic conditions. This is particularly true in the barangays of Tapaz, Capiz, where local folks and indigenous people are in need of initiatives that not only uplift their cultural awareness but also enhance their livelihood opportunities.

Project PUKAW-DUNGAN, an acronym for Promoting Unity, Knowledge, and Awareness: Developing Understanding, Nurturing Growth and Advocacy in Networking, is a proposed study that aims to address these needs. The project is intended to promote understanding, knowledge, and advocacy about various programs that are designed to enhance the lives of the people in the barangays of Tapaz.

One of the key components of the project is the promotion of livelihood programs such as "Panubok: A Livelihood Program of Panay Bukidnon Embroidery Tradition" and "Gastronomic Innovation Enterprise". These programs are designed to provide the local folks and indigenous people with skills and knowledge that they can use to improve their livelihoods.

The project also includes a sports program, "Hampuro: Preserving Local Heritage through Traditional Games for Sustainable Revitalization Program", which is aimed at preserving the local heritage through traditional games. This program is expected to contribute to the sustainable revitalization of the community.

In addition, the project involves a literacy program, "Education Under the Tree", which aims to enhance the literacy levels of the local folks and indigenous people. This program is expected to contribute to the overall development of the community by improving the literacy levels of the people.

The project also includes a values formation program, "Taytay sa Kauswagan: A Values Formation Program". This program is aimed at promoting values that are essential for personal growth and community development.

Following the implementation of the project, a series of seminars will be conducted to provide the participants with the necessary skills and knowledge to carry out the different programs. The seminars will also cover market access techniques that will enable the participants to profit from the livelihood programs.

The project will be funded by the Local Government Unit of the Tapaz Municipality, which will provide the necessary tools and materials. The project will involve 10 participants selected by the Punong Barangay of San Julian, Daan Banwa, Tabon, and Minan. The key officials of the said barangay will supervise the conduct of the project.

In essence, Project PUKAW-DUNGAN is a comprehensive initiative that aims to uplift the cultural awareness and literacy of the local folks and indigenous people in the barangays of Tapaz, Capiz, Philippines. It is expected that the project will contribute significantly to the socio-economic development of the community.

OBJECTIVES

1. To equip the local folks and indigenous people with the necessary skills and competencies for participating in and benefiting from local livelihood opportunities
2. To foster unity and camaraderie among community members through the promotion and preservation of traditional games
3. To improve the literacy rate among the local folks and indigenous people, providing them with essential reading and writing skills that can enhance their personal development and employability
4. To instill core values among the community members that can foster personal growth, mutual respect, and a harmonious coexistence
5. To facilitate the exchange of ideas and best practices among community members, encouraging collaboration and innovation that can further enhance cultural awareness, literacy, and socio-economic conditions within the community

ACTIVITIES

1. Create a collaborative agreement from the extension office from Capiz State University – Tapaz Satellite College
 - a. Establish a collaboration in implementing the study
 - b. Seek assistance and expertise from the Capiz State University – Tapaz Satellite College particularly for the workshops and trainings to be conducted with the participants of the study.
2. Coordinate with the barangay officials and community leaders
3. Conduct seminar, workshop, and orientation activities
 - a. Select/ Identify project respondents for this study
 - b. The respondents will be introduced to the different components of the Project PUKAW-DUNGAN
 - c. Conduct various seminars, workshops, and training the different components of the Project PUKAW-DUNGAN and market distribution strategies to promote the livelihood programs
4. Implement the project
 - a. Help the respondents with the practice of the embroidery tradition and gastronomic enterprise, playing of the traditional games, learning reading and writing and forming values they can use for life.
 - b. The proponent will help the respondents in the establishment of the shop with the products from the usage of “panubok” and gastronomic enterprise. By the end of this stage, the respondents can already begin to look for prospect market.

OUTPUTS AND IMPACTS

- Participants: The participants will be better off as they will gain valuable skills, knowledge, and competencies from the livelihood programs, literacy program, and values formation program. This can enhance their employability and income generation potential, improving their socio-economic conditions. They will also foster a sense of unity and camaraderie through the sports program, enhancing their social wellbeing.
- Community: The community as a whole will benefit from the project as it promotes unity, cultural awareness, and literacy. The increased economic activity from the livelihood programs can stimulate local economy, while the values formation program can foster a more harmonious coexistence among community members. The literacy program can also contribute to the overall development of the community by improving the literacy levels of the people.
- Local Government: The local government will benefit from a more cohesive, literate, and economically active community. The success of the project can also serve as a model for similar initiatives in other areas, enhancing the reputation of the local government.
- Cultural Heritage: The cultural heritage of the barangays of Tapaz, Capiz, particularly the Panay Bukidnon embroidery tradition and traditional games, will be preserved and promoted through the project. This can enhance the cultural identity and pride of the community, contributing to the sustainability of these cultural traditions.
- Future Researchers: Future researchers will benefit from the project as it can serve as a case study for community-based initiatives that aim to uplift cultural awareness, literacy, and socio-economic conditions. The project can provide valuable insights and lessons learned that can inform future research and practice in similar contexts.
